Marshall Plan Fund Measure Bugged Down

Hasty Rewrite Of Measure Expected To Eliminate Parliamentary Tieup

ACTION EXPECTED EARLY NEXT WEEK

By FRANK B. ALLEN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Appropriations committee senators hoped today that a hasty rewrite of the 5½ billion dollar Marshall Plan money bill will pull the measure out of a parliamentary bog-down.

The senators, angry because the administration resorted to little-used rules to block amendments they had approved, knocked out much language the White House wanted.

As a result, the Senate leadership may have to call for a suspension of Senate rules—which requires a two-thirds majority vote—in an effort to get the stricken language restored. The bill is expected to be reported today so action can be taken early next week.

The committee's modified aid bill carries five billion, 647 million dollars for the Marshall Plan and relief in occupied areas.

It stuck to its guns, despite administration opposition, to provide for Marshall Plan aid to Spain and for heavy purchases of surplus agricultural products in the United States.

Cause Of Return Of Bill

The latter provision was the cause of the bill's return to committee Wednesday.

However, in an effort to avoid another legislative roadblock, these provisions were put in the form of "limitations."

Thus, the rewritten bill provides that 50 million dollars of the appropriation shall not be available for purposes other than a Spanish loan. And the revised version of the McClelland amendment bans the use for any other purposes of the one and one-half billion dollars which the ECA estimated earlier would be needed for purchase of U. S. farm surpluses.

Committee Chairman McKellar (D-Tenn.) said he had been advised by counsel that the "limitations" would not be subject to a point or order under the Senate rule which bans "legislation" in an appropriations bill.

Other changes in the original bill was elimination of authorization of loans of 150 millions to western Europe over and above the grants covered in the appropriation.

There will be no inspection of bicycles Monday. However, commencing at 9 a.m. Tuesday, Second Ward bicycles will be examined at the Park avenue fire station.

A former resident now living in Kansas has asked the GNCA what cemetery in New Castle has mausoleums so that he may arrange for permanent location after the "final curtain has dropped."

With the ripening of peaches and other fruits about the county, canning will be getting under way in a large way in a few days. Vegetable canning will also occupy the time of many thrifty housewives about the area.

Both home owners and street workers in many sections of the city were engaged in sweeping and shoveling piles of dirt from their sidewalks and property on Friday, following the heavy storm of the night previous. Residents along Long avenue below the hill had an especially hard job to get their sidewalks clean.

Although thunder and lightning rumbled and flashed over the city for some time Friday evening, little rain materialized from the clouds.

Report Third Front In China Being Planned

By HOWARD HANDLEMAN
Far Eastern Director, International News Service

TAIPEH, Formosa, July 30.—Shipments of U. S. bombs and munitions arrived in Formosa today, amid reports that a Chinese Nationalist "third front" against Communists on the mainland is likely.

The bombs and munitions from Okinawa arrived at Keelung harbor shortly before acting Nationalist President Li Tsung-jen took off for Canton after a three-day conference with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

The conference apparently ended on an optimistic note and government officials expressed hopes of stopping the Communist sweep which is gaining momentum in South China.

Strategy Determined

Nationalist sources firmly believe that Chiang determined counter-offensive strategy during the conferences which lasted many hours at Chiang's mountain retreat.

So far there has been no official confirmation but Formosan newspapers quoted sources close to the government.

Inch Of Rain Is Noted This Morning

Near Cloudburst Noted In Downtown Section; East Side Swept Last Night

Just an even inch of rainfall was noted this morning, when a near cloudburst swept the city about 9:30 o'clock, flooding the downtown streets. It is believed that more rain fell in the downtown district than at the Water plant, where the official U. S. Weather Bureau Statistics are taken, however.

Most of the city escaped another severe storm which swept the southern and eastern fringes of the city shortly after 7 o'clock, Friday evening.

Only a few drops fell downtown and in the upper half of the city, but the East Side district reported rain as heavy as during the severe storm Thursday evening.

Lightning struck a home on Temple avenue, but only knocked a few shingles from the roof of the structure, which was in the course of construction.

Cascade Park and Sylvan Heights golf course were soaked, it was reported. However no severe wind accompanied last night's storm, and except for washing hillside streets, the damage was not extensive.

Unfinished Home Hit By Lightning

During the course of Friday evening's storm, an alarm from Box 414 called city firemen to the home being built by Mrs. John Lazar, 809 Temple avenue, when a bolt of lightning hit the corner of the house. Several shingles were knocked from the roof. Fire Chief H. F. Steinbrink stated, the damage being slight.

The Lazar home is under construction, and was unoccupied, it is stated.

Artillerymen Depart For Indiantown Gap On Friday Evening

Members of the main body of the Headquarters and Service Batteries, along with the Medical Detachment of the 229th Field Artillery, which are quartered at Cunningham Armory got away Friday evening at 7 o'clock via the Pennsylvania, without incident, and today are in camp at Indiantown Gap Military Reservation, prepared to get started on a two week period of intensive training which will last through the next two weeks.

There was a large crowd of friends and relatives on hand to see the men off.

Mitchell In Command

They had assembled at 6:15 o'clock, and after checking the roster to see that everyone was on hand, the men boarded their cars of the 20-car special train, which was to take them to Indiantown Gap.

The troop train was in charge of Lt. Col. George F. Mitchell, commander of the 229th Field Artillery Battalion, and enroute was scheduled to pick up additional units at New Brighton, Sewickley, and Canonsburg.

For a time, it looked as if the men might get rained on, as threatening clouds rolled up, but only a few drops of rain fell, and the men got aboard without getting wet. The main part of the storm swept around to the south, and again hit east of the city.

After setting up camp today, the men were to have the evening and all day Sunday to themselves, Sunday being declared a free day at camp, but bright and early Monday morning, a rigorous period of training was in store.

Three new men who enrolled on the last day, went along with the main body last evening, and will receive uniforms and equipment on arrival at camp.

The newcomers were James Caparoule, Leroy Rhodes and Charles Jackson.

Trucks Go Early

Early Friday morning, a large detail manning the 40 vehicles of the local detachment pulled out and rolled away towards Indiantown Gap with the vehicles and equipment of the local units.

They were scheduled to arrive ahead of the main body, which went by train last night. In addition, a skeleton detachment had gone to camp earlier in the week, to assist in setting up camp for the rest of the men.

Lt. Col. Mitchell was proud of the fine group of men entraining for camp, and stated on departure.

Perjury Charges May Be Developed

Some Cases Of Perjury May Be Result Of Probe Of "Five Percenters"

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(INS)—A Senate investigating committee source said today that "several cases of perjury" may result from the current probe of Washington's "five percenters" influence sellers.

The source, who declined to be identified, said also that investigators have turned up information on "pull-peddling" in the capital that "will be revolting to the taxpayers of the country."

"We have found irregularities, laxity, personal favoritism and suspicious actions in connection with the awarding of government contracts."

"I believe we will have a little difficulty chasing down kickbacks or payoffs which would cinch criminal liability cases."

"But we may develop, from the course of the hearings, several cases of perjury."

The source recalled that the 1947 investigation of Howard Hughes' plane contract mushroomed unexpectedly in the spectacular public probe of the wartime activities of Maj. Gen. Bennett E. Meyers, and commented:

"You never can tell where one of these things will take you."

Demonstration In Shanghai Is Protest Cause

U. S. Consulate In Shanghai Is Taken Over By Disgruntled Group

AMERICANS ARE HELD AS PRISONERS

By JOHN A. REICHMANN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 30.—The state department today planned fresh protests to communist authorities in Shanghai over the detention of 13 U. S. consular officials by disgruntled former employees.

The ex-employees worked for the naval mission to Shanghai, which was withdrawn sometime before the communists captured the Chinese metropolis. They now demand wages for the time since their lay-off as well as separation pay and bonuses.

This action has resulted in virtual imprisonment of the Americans.

A report to the state department said that 20 of the former employees had invaded the consular compound early yesterday morning. The keys to the gates were taken.

By midafternoon reinforcements arrived for the demonstrators, and by nightfall 100 of them were in the building. Others paraded outside.

Lawrence County Prisoner Escapes From Rockview

BELLEFONTAINE, Pa., July 30.—(INS)—A widespread search was underway today for a young inmate of the Rockview Penitentiary who escaped yesterday on a prison farm tractor.

Penitentiary officials said Robert Clark, 24, serving a sentence from Lawrence County, was operating the tractor as part of his prison duties when he cut through a fence and drove off. Neither Clark nor the tractor has been seen since.

The tractor held enough gasoline to travel about 30 miles.

Clark is believed to have stolen an automobile last night approximately 10 miles from the prison, police said. He was serving a 2½ year sentence for larceny of an automobile.

Congressmen Seek More Facts On Arms Program

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(INS)—House Foreign Affairs committee charged today that America's top military leaders have failed to make a sufficient case for the Truman "arms-for-friends" program.

Members of the unit, which will be the first to vote on the one billion 450 million dollar program, said the three joint chiefs of staff had little more than "window-dressing" to contribute to secret testimony Friday.

Gen. Omar N. Bradley, Admiral Louis Denfeld and Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg were closeted with the committee for nearly three hours before they departed for Europe to discuss defense plans under the North Atlantic Pact.

Rep. Judd (R) Minn., a key member of the committee, said later:

"Frankly, I doubt that an arms program will be passed unless we get more of a unified defense plan than has been offered."

"Nearly everyone on the committee is convinced of the need for providing some military aid to Europe. But this time we want to see what we are buying before we put the money on the table."

He said the committee has been given "only generalities."

Rep. Vorys (R) Ohio, said the testimony disclosed there is "no ready-to-go" plan for use of the weapons the administration proposes to share.

He said the strategic plan outlined publicly by Bradley was merely this country's military recommendations.

Tradition Fails At Waynesburg

July 29 Comes And Goes And No Rain Arrives In Town On Date

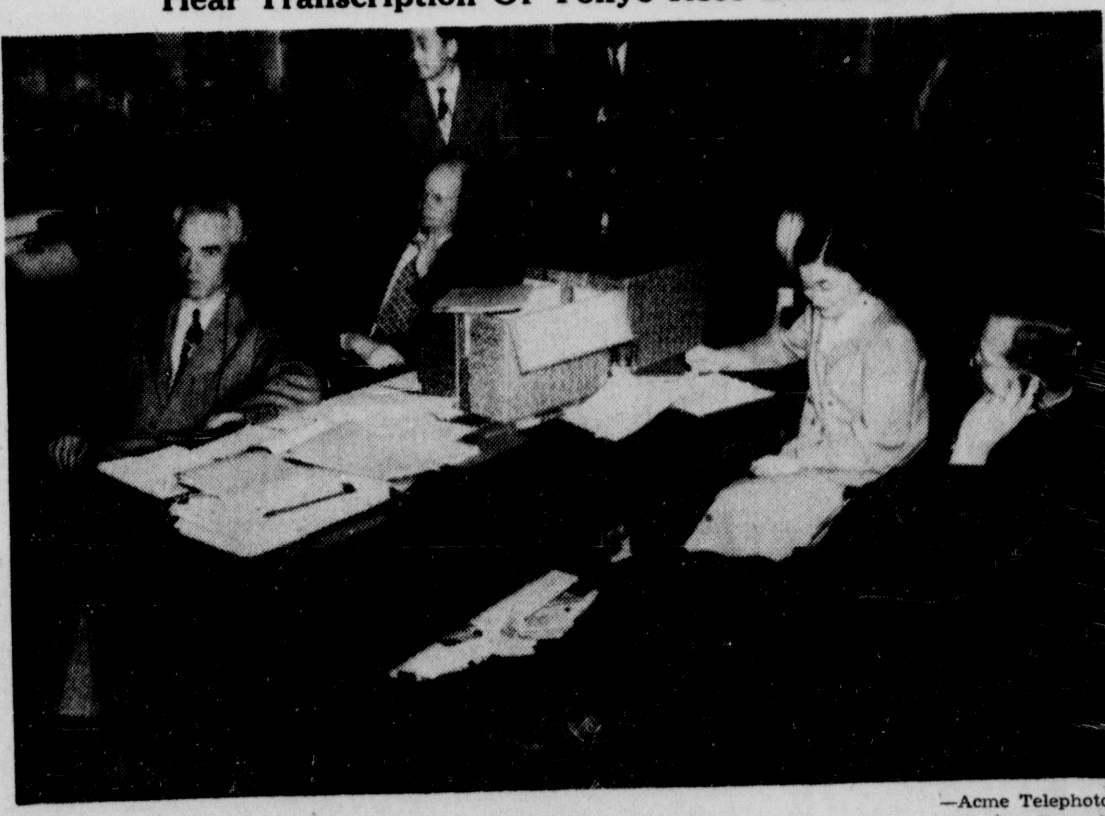

WAYNESBURG, Pa., July 30.—(INS)—Waynesburg's sheepish townsmen withdrew from the limelight today and reluctantly admitted that "rain day" was a big flop.

The traditional downpour, which has been recorded 67 times in the last 72 years, never came about. It was bone dry throughout July 29. And townsmen wondered if, maybe, tradition wasn't swinging the other way.

This was the third time in the last four years the drought has prevailed.

Attorney John Daily, the town's official rainmaker, lost his yearly bet to Vince Johnson, a Pittsburgh newspaper columnist, who wagered the legend was all nonsense.

Hey boss the tour is over, I hope the job's still there, it's been two weeks since last we worked, and the weather has been right fair. Got a touch of sun tan and windburn, and the bank roll is sagging and low, why didn't somebody whisper to me that vacations like this one cost dough. But they're gone, both the time and the money, and despite that, I've this much to say, had a whale of a time, and we're ready for work, and it's 80 today.

McGrath May Find He Will Lose Out On $12,500 Pay Boost

WASHINGTON, July 30.—(INS)—Sen. J. Howard McGrath (D) R. I., may find that being a senator will cost him a $12,500 pay raise if he accepts President Truman's appointment as attorney general.

The Constitution specifically bars any member of Congress from benefiting from a pay increase for government officials which was voted during his elected term as a senator or representative.

Pending in the Senate and expected to pass is a House-approved bill to boost the salaries of cabinet members from $15,000 to $25,000 annually.

Thus, it appears that McGrath, whose term expires in 1953, would receive $15,000 as attorney general. As a senator, he gets a $10,000 yearly salary plus $2,500 for expenses.

There are several precedents governing the issue. They include the cases of ex-Sens. Philander C. Knox (R) Pa., who was appointed secretary of state in 1909; Carl Hatch (D) N. M., who became a federal judge and Warren R. Austin (R) Vt., U. S. delegate to the United Nations.

Knox, who had voted for a cabinet pay increase bill, was not allowed to receive the increased salary. Both the appointments of Hatch and Austin were delayed until their Senate terms expired.

Plans Are Given On Reduction Of Berlin Airlift

BERLIN, July 30.—(INS)—American and British authorities announced today their plans for gradually reducing the Allied airlift which broke the back of the Russian blockade.

The announcement said the aerial freight service which has hauled more than two billion 214 tons and tons of supplies into Berlin will be terminated in stages by the end of the next three months.

Authorities said because maximum stockpiles are on hand in the city now, daily tonnages will be cut down to 5,400 in August, 3,500 in September and 2,000 in October.

The U. S. Airforce plans, however, to keep two troop carrier groups—normally 48 planes each—available as a permanent skeleton lift adequate to permit full revival "when ever the necessity arises."

The airlift began on June 26, after the start of the Russian blockade of Berlin.

Another French report stated that the U. S. defense chiefs will discuss plans for earmarking Anglo-French naval bases for combined defense.

The master defense plan which Gen. Bradley outlined to Congress should an aggressor nation attack an Atlantic Pact signatory would bind the United States with the job of strategic bombing and use of the atomic bomb.

Britain, France and the "closer" countries would be charged with the bulk of short-range attack bombardment and air defense. The U. S. Navy and western European union powers would conduct essential naval operations and would be charged with keeping the sea lanes clear.

The hard core of ground defense would come from European nations, with aid from others as they can mobilize.

THE FOLLOW-THROUGH

The President was unwise to insist on the Military Assistance Program—or MAP—being accepted without change. The MAP as it stands is vague and costly, and contains elements of danger. It can be improved on several counts.

The MAP is a new and untried experiment. If it is not carefully handled, it may become an American-financed armaments race among 11 European nations, each trying to get more than its share of American arms at the expense of the others. At worst it might even make war between two of the beneficiaries more likely.

So perhaps it is a sound suggestion that the United States support the plan on a stop-gap basis until it takes shape. The Marshall Plan was worked out in common by its beneficiaries before the United States agreed to finance it. There is less clear indication that the MAP is a common plan, rather than 11 separate national plans. A common plan, for instance, might call for a large supply of arms for Norway and none at all for France, or vice versa. A common plan would call for the kind of coordination that existed during World War II. Congress would do well to insist on seeing the blueprints of such a plan before voting more than temporary assistance.

Cost is also an important factor. The United States must avoid the penny-wise policy of spending less than is essential, but should not spend more.

It is even possible that arming Russia's neighbors too well might spur her to aggression. It is up to Congress to look into these matters.

VACATIONS ON THE HOUSE

House Speaker Sam Rayburn has thrown a pail of cold water on the plans of many a representative to see the world at public expense this summer. He has been seconded by Rep. Mary Norton, chairman of the House Administration Committee. Her ultimatum: "Committees wanting money for (traveling) expenses will have to justify them. I have never considered a 'junket' justified."

Speaker Rayburn had some statistics at hand to back up his statement of policy. During one period in 1948, he said, a total of 165 members of the House—more than a third of the House roster—were absent from Washington on investigating and inspection trips.

Adding to the death knell for "inspection" trips abroad, or in this country, was a statement last winter from the late defense secretary, Mr. Forrestal, making it plain that lawmakers would get fewer free "hitches" on military aircraft. One of the first official acts of Defense Secretary Louis Johnson was an order forbidding the three branches of the military establishment to issue invitations for inspection tours of military and naval posts inside or outside the country without clearance from his office.

Many of the trips, of course, are entirely justified, and it would be a misdirected piece of parsimony to deny them. In the summer of 1947, for instance, over 200 congressmen travelled through Europe to take a look at post-war conditions and problems firsthand.

There are several spots on the globe where a visitation of lawmakers might be a good thing. But as for vacations on the House, with the government picking up the check, the taxpayers will back up Messrs. Rayburn and Johnson, and Mrs. Norton.

FRENCH RATIFY TREATY

A bare majority of votes in the General Assembly would have been sufficient to carry French ratification of the North Atlantic Treaty. Actually, it was approved by more than a two-thirds margin—398 votes to 187.

The Communists voted as a unit against ratification but their bitter denunciation of the pact as an aggressive move against Soviet Russia succeeded in swaying none but a few fellow-travelers into voting with them.

They had made a point of playing upon French fears of a resurgent Germany. Some of them announced flatly that the next U. S. step in regard to the Treaty would be the admission of Germany as a signatory member, preliminary to its re-arming with American aid.

Knowing that mere denial of a Communist lie gets nowhere, the Government leaders nipped this objection in the bud by making it a condition of ratification that French consent to the admission of new members would require the approval of the Assembly.

The large vote given in favor of the Treaty shows that most Frenchmen realize the new alliance is not a hostile move against Russia, but a practical measure of peace insurance.

A doctor observes that our noses are becoming sharper. We still think it's a good idea to keep them to the grindstone.

America has 36 per cent of the world's income. And how well aware the foreigners are of that.

Some Americans have the idea that freedom is doing what they want to do—with help from the government, of course.

That first four billion we loaned John Bull didn't much more than pay for socializing the coal mines and establishing free toupees, false teeth and aspirin for the people.

In View Of News Of The World

By J. C. OESTREICHER, INS Foreign Director

The Chinese communist army strike toward Canton and even elsewhere are putting pressure on the U. S. state department to try to work out a positive policy toward China and replace the present negative one.

The new U. S. review board, including non-governmental aides, is expected to meet within a few days. President Elpidio Quirino of the Philippines, who recently agreed with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek to create a "Pacific Union" of anti-communist states, is expected in Washington Aug. 8.

Former Presidential Candidate Gov. Thomas E. Dewey in a new speech has called for aid to China. He said: "With a small fraction of what a new war would cost we could provide the skills and resources which we might reasonably hope could still save China."

Almost simultaneously acting Chinese Nationalist President Li Tsung-jen declared in Formosa that a world-wide anti-communist alliance is essential "to avoid unspeakable suffering."

Even while the pressure is applied on the American administration to pour more millions into China, President Truman is asked to scale down his proposed arms aid to western Europe.

The administration decision which the far has withheld more aid to Chiang apparently is based on L. Gen. Albert Wedemeyer's report.

That report, made long before the communists conquered Manchuria and began sweeping into southern China, never has been released.

Corruption Charged
But some reports say it accuses the nationalists of such corruption that much American arms flowed into communist hands.

Gen. George C. Marshall, later to become secretary of state, has been cool toward the nationalists ever since he returned from his vain post-war peace mission in China.

The administration adopted a "wait and see" attitude after the fall of Manchuria and the crossing of the Yangtze River.

American and British business men remained in captured Shanghai also to see what the communist attitude would be—hostility or evidence of international "business as usual."

What has been seen since the fall of Shanghai is not yet conclusive but it certainly is not encouraging for the west.

IF CHILD BALKS AT HIS FOOD

In recent years there has been great progress in the selection and preparation of proper foods for babies and young children. The modern pediatrician guides the mother in these matters. Manufacturers of foods have made available a wonderful array of foods that are adequate, palatable, and easily and safely served to babies and young children. Books, magazines and lectures give many reliable facts and procedures relating to correct foods for youngsters. Never was there a time when so many mothers have had so much useful and preparation of whole-some foods for their children, or a time when so many mothers in our country could afford so well to buy these foods.

Yet it is chiefly among these more highly intelligent and informed mothers that most eating problems in children arise. As a rule, these mothers know far more about the foods that little children should have than of how to cause these children to enjoy eating. Mothers who know little about proper diets for their children don't incline to worry over the youngster's appetite. For them, ignorance seems almost to be bliss. But how can knowledge about the proper quality, quantity and preparation of food for the baby and young child be harmful? Isn't such knowledge very essential? Of course, it's essential. But with this knowledge needs also to go knowledge of how to cause the child to enjoy the proper foods and the art of putting this knowledge into practice. Such knowledge and art imply understanding by the mother of the child's emotions and her own and the art of managing her own emotion so as to cultivate favorable emotions in him concerning eating.

As you can see, a mother can have as much anxiety and stirrings in her inside when the youngster does not choose to eat what she is sure he should and as much of it as he should, as to cause the child to choose less instead of more of what she is so eager to have him eat. When such happens her knowledge of his food needs can do her child harm instead of good.

On the other hand, see how much good her wisdom about the choice and preparation can mean to her and him if she can use this wisdom wisely. But let's not be too hard on the mother for letting her emotions get the better of her intelligence. Perhaps we should shift the blame deservedly to all those experts who put so much emphasis on proper selection and preparation of foods without considering the child and his emotions and the mother and her emotions. The average pediatrician may deserve some of the blame. Too often he only tells the mother what to feed the child and how much and even may scold her when she doesn't get such quantity and quality of food into him.

The mother can force the child to eat only in an indirect way by limiting his choices, provided she can do so with perfect self-control. To this end she should serve only one food at a time, as a rule, and in very, very small portions, letting him choose between this and nothing, while she keeps her own inside serene, her head clear and her line closed.

lice in Shanghai on a minor traffic violation; the communist Peiping radio has echoed the Moscow party line faithfully, and an American editor in Shanghai has been intermittently locked up in his newspaper plant by communist-backed Chinese employees because he dared to suspend operations.

British Seamen Killed
Scores of British seamen were killed and wounded even before Shanghai fell, resulting in the Anglo-American naval "retreat" from Asia's largest port and city.

What comes next? If the communists gain control over most of China it will mean that one-fifth of the human family will have passed from the western to the eastern Moscow-directed side of the international fence.

Some western leaders believe that the easing of tension in Europe is deliberate on the part of Moscow. Former Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov's new job, if any, never has been announced, but some believe he is directing the communist offensive in the far east.

Reports of heavy casualties in China—whether communist or nationalist—are taken with lots of salt by veteran far-eastern observers. They have seen nationalist soldiers who have been fighting for 11 years or more.

Indications are that nationalist troops did not fight much when the communists struck across the Yangtze. In many cases they just melted into the landscape without firing a shot.

They wanted to go home, which isn't surprising.

Chiang, whose leadership qualities are impressive when you remember that China for decades has been a hive of "war lord" rule, faces the biggest fight of his life in trying to convince Washington that more aid would turn the tide in China.

The World and the Mud Puddles

NO ECONOMY IN SIGHT

Most paymen, if they have any business sense whatever, must wonder at the stubborn opposition of the administration and its spokesmen to proposals of reducing appropriations. Although some outstanding Democratic leaders in the upper house have warned that expenditures must be reduced if we are not to boost taxes or resort to more deficit financing, they have joined administration forces in defeating a government proposal of a straight five per cent cut in budget allotments.

Already our federal debt is vastly larger than the value of all our national assets, according to no less an authority than the Department of Commerce. Our interest bill alone requires a huge sum in taxes. Our swollen federal payroll requires some six to eight billion dollars a year.

On Road to Bankruptcy
With a defense budget which may eventually reach eighteen to twenty billions, five and a half billion allotted for ERP and the prospect of some two billions more for arming the North Atlantic Pact signatories, plus the normal expense of government, it doesn't seem that any member of administration or congress should have the business intelligence to know that insistence on the vast "social spending program of the president will lead us a long way down the road to bankruptcy.

There is not a capable industrial or business manager in the country who could not effect large economies in government and eliminate at least a half-million superfluous employees without in any manner impairing the functioning of the government. On the contrary, such economies in many instances would improve efficiency by eliminating duplications, confusion and conflicts of authority.

The only way we shall ever get governmental economy, of course, is through vigorous and insistent pressure from the great mass of taxpayers. This pressure, so far, unfortunately, has not been in evidence. The nation which fought a revolution on the issue of taxation without representation nowadays seems to submit docilely to this very evil.

The halo which encircles the head of a person held sacred, was used in religious art in India, Egypt, Etruscan, ancient Greece and Rome. It is comparatively recent in Christian art.

Byrd Forces Face Battle

WASHINGTON, July 30.—In nearby Virginia they are winding up the fiercest political battle seen in that ordinarily placid state in many a year. The machine of Sen. Harry F. Byrd is being seriously challenged in the race for governor to be decided at Tuesday's primary.

Byrd and the politicians operating one of the most tightly controlled organizations in the country have raised the cry of "outside interference" by the trade unions. They would like to have the voters believe the contest is a kind of trial run for 1950 when the issue of organized labor in politics will be fought out on a much bigger field.

But the ardent champions of Francis Pickens Miller, the anti-Byrd contender, dispute this loudly. They insist that the real issue is whether Virginians are to participate in free elections or whether state and national offices are to be perpetually filled by the designation of insiders who in each county manage the courthouse crowd.

Miller strategy
The Miller strategy is to try to get out the largest possible vote. As of today the Miller forces believe the vote will be between 330,000 and 350,000—out of a population of more than 800,000. On that basis they are surprisingly optimistic about the outcome.

Besides Byrd's candidate, James S. Battle, two others are in the race. They are Remmie L. Arnold, a pen manufacturer, and Horace H. Edwards, who was for eight years state Democratic chairman.

The child they had not wanted grew to be the greatest joy they knew; To bring the golden light of fame to shine upon his father's name.

Time was they feared the constant care Would be too much for them to bear, But later, as the years went by, They prayed: "Lord, do not let him die!"

Had God allowed the right of choice, They had not heard his cheery voice.

Had they their own careers designed, They'd lost the splendor of his mind.

With pride and with exultant joy Today they look upon their boy, Regretting this remembrance grim, That once they had not wanted him. (Copyright, 1949, Edgar A. Guest)

Days Before Cellophane!

By PAUL GALLICO

Did you too find this a happier and more livable world B. C.? I am referring of course to Before Cellophane.

I remember it well, for I am of that happy breed, a child of two centuries. When ours turned, there was no such thing as Cellophane on earth, and believe me, all you young folk, it made it a wonderful place to live. Not having any, I mean.

Goodness, I can recall as though it were just yesterday how it used to be when you bought a box of chocolates in the old days. The box used to be done up with a piece of red, green or yellow silk ribbon with a big bow on the top. The lady who sold it to you would then wrap it in a bit of white paper, and tie it with a piece of red string that had maybe a bit of gold thread running through it. And that was it.

When you presented it to your lady, the string worked on a slip-knot, the white paper parted easily revealing the pretty box; the ribbon with the bow was loose and slid off easily, the cover of the box came off without much effort and there, except for a bit of lace paper, you were.

Try To Open One Today

But try and break into a modern Cellophane-wrapped and covered box of sweets in under twenty-seven minutes by registered stopwatch. Or a loaf of bread, or a cigar, a stick of chewing gum, a pack of cigarettes, a pair of silk stockings, all of the good and desirable things of life. They're all locked away behind Cellophane.

It used to be a quiet world, ours, too, with few noises outside of the distant wail of a railway train, the clippity-clop of horses' hoofs on a dirt road, the chirping of sparrows and the wind in the trees. Now the poor nerve-wracked planet, amidst other hideous sounds, reverberates to the rustling, hissing, crackling and thundering of millions of things tied up in Cellophane being opened daily. Every minute, somebody is involved in a life and death struggle with a piece of Cellophane.

Not only Cellophane, but Cellophane reinforced by his pal Scotch Tape, the two of them indissoluble, unconquerable, unbreachable and indestructible. But then I am planning to do a later essay on Scotch Tape which I believe deserves a chapter all its own and shall have it.

For the time being, we are concerned with the Cellophane that apparently has no beginning and no end—no join whatsoever. See it, for instance, in operation on a packet of dried figs or dates that you are anxious to get at to assuage your appetite. You are holding in your fingers a smooth, glassy, transparent object. Inside, plainly visible through the Cellophane wrapping are the figs. Outside are you.

Look For Some Place To Begin

Naturally you look for some place to begin, a spot to get a nail-hold and crack this innocent-looking envelope. Well, there ain't any. It all seems to be cast of one piece. It hugs the contents. It smiles at you confidently and defies you to get at what it means to protect until the last gasp. Round and round you go, seeking to solve its secret and crack the mystery.

You realize finally that there are no entrances and no exits. Then a ray of hope. You find a wrinkle. You attack it—calmly and with dignity at first, then more frantically with rapid breath and glazing eye. Oh, the Cellophane will give here and there, it will loosen, it will make more wrinkles, it will even give you a bit of slack to twist, but it won't give 'way. Your fingernail breaks but the Cellophane doesn't. You set your teeth to it and it pulls out your bridgework. You try a pocket knife; its smooth hide is impervious to your edge; it parries your blade and rapiers neatly by turning it into slashing your own thumb. You are drenched with sweat and the Cellophane isn't even breathing hard.

Lose Reason and Composure

I do not know about you, but I go mad at this point and lose all reason and composure. I have long since ceased to crave whatever it is I am after inside this piece of transparent rhinoceros hide—figs, date, chocolate, or smoke. I don't care any longer. I wouldn't put it inside my face if I had it. All I want to do now is whip that Cellophane. And at this stage of the game, I will use any means. I have blasted packages with a shotgun and I have beaten them to shreds with an axe. I will not yield. Either I must destroy the Cellophane or the Cellophane will destroy me. Oh, I do not lose. I am no quitter. But I also invariably wreck whatever is inside that the Cellophane is supposed to protect.

Look at what your world is coming to. More and more things are wrapped up in Cellophane. The list is ever growing. You encounter it at the grocery, the drugstore, the tobacconist, the haberdasher, the furrier, the florist who puts his gardenias into little burglar-proof Cellophane safes, the liquor shop, the delicatessen (ever tried to get a crisp potato chip in a hurry?). 'Twas better when we were young and nowhere on the face of the earth was there any of the stuff.

Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

Sometimes I wonder whether we folks here in America are as democratic as we claim to be.

The thought came to me last night when we were guests at an informal dinner.

Yet, informal as it was supposed to be—when we entered the dining room of our hosts we might as well have been in an English manor house.

Being married almost twenty-eight years, I am no longer in the habit of pulling out the chair for my wife to sit down.

But, naturally, when the host did that little thing for his wife, what could I do but join him in the role of a cavalier?

My wife looked at me for a moment as if she thought I was playing a trick on her—probably she thought I pulled out the chair so that she would fall down. (Sometimes I have that kind of sense of humor.) But then I gave her a wink and looked over to where the host was just pushing the chair back under his wife, so she understood.

Then came the complicated array of spoons and knives and forks that I have never been able to unpuzzle, no matter how often I read the etiquette columns.

Butter knives, fish knives, meat knives, they all look the same to me. And when I started to eat the corn-on-cob I immediately reverted from cavalier to drooling slob, just as I always do no matter how often I am told by my better half that I have no manners.

This wondering about our democratic way of life strikes me most forcefully when I read the society items in our local paper.

In a small community such as ours we all know pretty well who everybody is. Ordinarily we are just about all the same. You can't very well live in a little town and be a snob.

Well, perhaps a bit of "French illusion" is part of Democracy, after all.

Court House

Opinions Are
Given By CourtJudge Braham Hands Down
Orders On Eve Of Departure On VacationOTHER NEWS OF
COURT HOUSE HILL

On the eve of his departure for Chautauqua, N. Y., where he will spend much of the coming month on vacation, Judge W. Walter Braham handed down several opinions.

In the case of Robert Jay Mason, trading and doing business as the Mason Realty Company, vs. Joseph Lagnese and Luigi Lagnese, individually and as partners trading as "The Town Pump," in which the defendants had asked for a judgment non obstante veredicto, the defendant's motion for judgment and for a new trial is overruled and the prothonotary is directed to enter judgment on the verdict upon payment of the jury fee.

The case is one in which Mason brought suit over a written contract of employment, which provided for a commission in excess of $21,000 for the sale of their tavern. The actual sale price of the property was $23,500. The jury awarded the plaintiff $1,800.

In the opinion and order the finds that the defendants oddly enough contend that the correct verdict should have been $2,500, whereas the jury awarded but $1,800.

The defendants contend error in refusing the right to show the amount for which they finally sold their tavern. The ruling the court says is correct. The fact that later the defendants decided not to sell to the plaintiffs customer and finally made sale to someone else at a lower figure does not relieve them of their obligation to the plaintiff.

The reasons initially assigned were the usual ones the court contends, namely, that the verdict was against the law; the evidence and weight of evidence; and the charge of the court error wherein none of which are found to have any merit.

LOITERING CHARGE
APPEALED

In the case of the city of New Castle and Commonwealth of Pennsylvania against Joseph Paolone, charged with loitering, in which the defendant appealed from an alderman's verdict and asked for a certiorari, the court contends that in regard to the certiorari the action must be dismissed for the reasons set out fully in the appeal filed, namely, that the defendant had paid the fine and costs assessed.

The rule issued on the plaintiff on May 6 (but not served) is dismissed and the appeal is allowed. Notice to vacate the appeal is refused. The defendant is directed to give bond in the sum of $200 within 10 days from the date and if bond is given a time and place for hearing will be fixed on the motion.

MANY ON VACATIONS

The month of August will find but a skeleton court calendar with many of the court officials away on vacations.

Judge John G. Lamoree will be on deck to take care of any business which may arise while Judge Braham, the presiding judge, is vacationing at Lake Chautauqua.

Mrs. Mary Conti, court interpreter, Miss Elizabeth Harvard, judges secretary and stenographer, and Court Stenographer Faunt M. Rowland will all be away. Mr. Rowland plans to try out the fishing waters of the state of Wisconsin.

Wet And Dry
Battles To Be Waged In State

HARRISBURG, July 30.—(INS)

—The battle between wet and dry forces will be waged this year by nearly 225,000 Pennsylvanians in 137 local communities.

Reports from county commissioners today show that municipalities in 39 counties will hold local option elections in the September 13 primaries according to the state liquor control board.

Nearly 75 per cent of the petitions filed for wet-dry elections were circulated by the dries. All but nine of the municipalities voting on the controversial question this year have less than 5,000 population. The largest is the city of Butler.

Eighty-nine communities will ballot on the sale of both liquor and beer while 34 will vote on liquor alone and 14 on beer only.

Thirty-three of the municipalities voting on liquor are dry at present while 90 are wet. Thirty communities voting on beer are now dry and 73 wet. Involved in the balloting are 219 liquor and 61 retail beer licenses.

Since 1934, the LCB said, 1193 of Pennsylvania's 2571 cities, boroughs and townships have voted on the wet-dry question. Currently, 6.1 per cent of the state's population is dry for the issuance of all types of retail licenses. An additional 1.2 per cent prohibits liquor licenses only and 0.4 per cent bans beer licenses.

Folks Of Fame

An English actress of the first rank, Mrs. "Atrick" Campbell was born at Kensington Gardens, London, February 8, 1865. She made her stage debut in 1885. Her first appearance in Liverpool in 1888, joined the Ben Greet outdoor Shakespearean company, taking the roles of Rosalind in "As You Like It," Viola in "Twelfth Night," etc. In 1893, her performance in Sir Arthur Pinero's "The Second Mrs. Tanqueray" put her among the great English play-actresses. She made her first appearance in America in 1902, and subsequently toured the country. In 1922, she published an autobiography, "My Life and Some Letters." She died in 1940.

James A. Garfield was born November 19, 1831, in a log cabin, in a little frontier town in Ohio. He became a professor at Hiram college and later its president. He entered politics in 1859 as a member of the state Senate. In the Civil War he served as a brigadier general, and in 1880 he was elected a member of the United States Senate. The Republicans chose him as their candidate for the presidency in 1880 as a "dark horse." In 1881—the 20th president. In July of that year, however, he was shot down in the Washington railroad station by a disappointed office seeker, and he died September 19.

NOT BUILT SO WELL

DARTMOUTH, Mass.—No one was surprised when five persons fell through a floor in the century old Baker home on Gibley Town road. The surprise came when it was learned they toppled through the kitchen floor, which was built only a few years ago.

THIEF SWEETENS LOOT

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore.—Police are keeping a sharp eye on local candy counters to spot a prowler with a sweet tooth who broke into a manufacturing plant. After picking up micrometers, drill bits and a welding torch, the thief cleaned out all the candy and gum machines in the recreation hall.

Ash wood, after steaming, can be permanently bent without losing shock-resisting power.

TRUCKS ARE UNSEEN GUESTS
AT YOUR DINNER TABLE

Not only the dinner table but the breakfast table and the lunch table. Motor trucks are your unseen guests.

The cream you poured over your cereal this morning, the bacon and eggs that tasted so good, the newspaper you read, all of them were hauled by motor truck some time before they got to you.

That beef for dinner, the potatoes, the vegetables, the dessert, all of them rode a motor truck in order to get to your table.

Right now the tremendous harvests are commencing. Wheat is already, corn will be coming soon. And those tremendous crops are moved from the field to the barns or the elevators or the railroad siding by motor trucks.

That's right. Motor trucks are unseen guests at your table.

Why Millions Call Him "HOLY FATHER"

Catholic loyalty to the Pope is the cause of never-ending amazement to many non-Catholics.

They wonder how an exclusively spiritual leader can command the devotion of nearly four hundred millions of people. They cannot explain why this vast religious family...representing every race, color, language and political belief on the face of the earth...lives and grows through the ages, while man-made empires have their day of glory and then disappear.

What is there about this one man that causes people to speak of him in a hundred tongues as "Holy Father"?

We find the answer, of course, not necessarily in the holiness of the man himself, but in his Christ-given office. The answer is found by tracing the history of the Catholic Church...the history of 262 successive Popes...back through nearly 2,000 years to Christ Himself.

We know as a matter of historical fact that Christ did establish His Church...that He commissioned the Apostle Peter as its first head...that He sent His Apostles forth to teach men to observe all things He had commanded.

We know from the New Testament that the Church was actually organized...that it was governed by the Apostles under the leadership of Peter...that it was teaching Christ's truth far and wide, long before the last book of the New Testament was written and the books of the Bible were collected into one volume.

Christ's purpose in organizing a Church was to make certain that the good news of Redemption would be preached to all men...even to the end of the world. To accomplish this with fallible men, required that He establish a Church—divinely protected from error in transmitting His teaching through the centuries.

The Catholic Church traces its unbroken history back to the Apostles—back to Christ. And Catholics today call Pope Pius XII "Holy Father" because he is the lawful and historical successor to Peter, the first Pope. He is in our time...as Peter was in the first century...the Vicar of Christ on earth.

Would you like to know more about the Pope...why the promises made by Christ to Peter and his successors make the Pope the most important man in the world? Then write today for a pamphlet which we shall send you free and without any obligation. Ask for Pamphlet No. 4-N.

'Lady In Black' Leaves Capitol

Mrs. Olga Schwartz, Battling For 37 Years For Damages, Moved By Police

OFFERED $5,000 WANTS $50,000

HARRISBURG, July 30.—(INS)—State workers today miss the familiar figure of the "Little Old Lady in Black" who slept on a marble bench in the capitol rotunda to point up her plea for $50,000.

Her story is 37 years old and she'll tell it to all who will listen. But for the time being, Mrs. Olga Schwartz, 76, of Scranton, will have to carry on her "lobbying" from afar for the claim which she believes is due her for the death of her husband, Gustav, at Scranton in a construction accident in 1909.

Taken For Own Good

She was taken from the state capitol Thursday afternoon "for her own good" by state police from the Wyoming barracks. With them was one of her seven children with whom she may make her home.

For many years, Mrs. Schwartz battled an insurance company for the money until it suspended operations. Then 26 years ago she switched her campaign to the legislature; the state insurance department is holding a $5,000 court-ordered settlement in her name.

She can pick up the money any time she wants it but she refuses. She wants $50,000.

Will See Her In 1951

If experience is any teacher, the legislature will see her again in 1951 providing she is still able to hobble to the state capitol on her crutches. She is bent with arthritis and a crippling injury suffered two years ago at Harrisburg in an automobile accident.

Mrs. Schwartz first appeared this year when the 1949 General Assembly opened in January. She slept at first in a rest room, but when police locked the doors in an effort to force her to return home, she moved her bed to a marble bench in the capitol rotunda.

She said she "didn't mind" sleeping on the bench, explained that "it is better than walking the streets."

Awaiting Court Action

She said she was staying at the capitol to await action by the state supreme court on her claim. When the court met in May she discussed her case with Chief Justice George W. Maxey, she explained.

The high court, however, has never had her case before it. Mrs. Schwartz's quest began in 1912 when she filed a claim for $50,000 against an insurance company in the death of her husband, she finally won a judgment of $5,000 but refused to accept it.

The company later went into receivership and during liquidation proceedings Mrs. Schwartz was offered a settlement which she also refused.

Since that time, she has carried her case to the legislature, appearing during each biennial legislative session to seek the aid of lawmakers. Several years ago the legislature, appearing during each biennial legislative session to seek the aid of lawmakers. Several years ago the legislature approved a $10,000 appropriation to cover her claim, but Mrs. Schwartz again refused, insisting she should have $50,000.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

In W. L. White's new book, "Land of Milk and Honey," he tells of two Russian peasants who heard an early speech of Stalin's, and went running to the local holy man to check on the proper reaction. "This fellow Stalin says that despite the opposition of all the rest of the world, socialism can be successfully built up in one country like ours. Is this so?"

The holy man meditated, stroking his beard, and then answered, "Yes, Stalin is right. Socialism can be built in one country. But—while they are doing it, my sons, it is much wiser to live in some other country!"

An Iowa newspaper recently front-paged this item: "Local police are puzzled over the finding of an automobile parked outside the church containing a full case of Scotch whiskey. So far the owner has not been traced, but Captain Casey is working diligently on the case." And a journal in Tennessee described "the greatest mule parade of the decade, headed by the governor."

GRANDMA'S SKIN

Sometimes grandma has trouble with her skin. She has always pined herself of her good complexion and smooth skin.

Now it is rough and spotty. Perhaps it is itchy. She is worried about it and tries all sorts of remedies.

Sometimes grandma does not eat a very good diet. She does not have as good an appetite as she formerly had. She used to eat a greater variety of foods than she does now.

Those foods provided her with the things which helped to keep her skin in good condition.

Now perhaps she takes vitamin pills. Fruits, vegetables, cereals, milk, eggs and water will help to care for grandma's skin. Perhaps she may need to partake of more than her appetite calls for.

Pills are a poor substitute for a proper diet.

Only three quarters will be payable this year, the fourth quarter being payable in 1949, Mr. McClung reported.

THE FAMILY SCRAPBOOK

By DR. ERNEST G. OSBORNE

Kids Cooking

Cooking is a lot of fun even for the smaller folks in the family. Indeed, it may be a good deal more fun for them than for Mom, who has to do it morning, noon, and night. Not too many parents encourage their youngsters to find the satisfaction there is in "messing around" in the kitchen. Yet cooking can be as creative as drawing, playing the piano, or modeling in clay.

Here are a couple of simple things at which the beginner can try her (or his) hand. They are especially good for hot weather. Banana Milk Shake—six servings: 4 ripe bananas, 1 quart chilled milk, 2 tablespoons sugar, ½ teaspoon vanilla, a few grains of salt. Cut up bananas into large bowl. Whip with egg beater until smooth and creamy. Add slowly the other ingredients. Beat until well blended. Serve in tall glasses. Gelatin Lollipops: Use one of the gelatin mixtures found in every grocery store. Use jigger glasses or small jad lids as moulds. Fill them with plain liquid gelatin and place in an empty freezing tray in the refrigerator. When the gelatin begins to thicken, insert a matchstick or toothpick as a handle. Freeze until firm and remove by running a knife around the edges.

Disturbing Increase In Cocaine Smuggling From South America Reported

LARGE QUANTITIES FOUND IN HARLEM

By WILLIAM J. KERWIN
(N. Y. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 29.—The government said Thursday there is an "extremely disturbing" increase in cocaine smuggling from South America and reported that American seamen are participating.

Narcotics Commissioner Harry J. Anslinger said it appears that enough of the drug is stored in New York's Harlem district to meet all demands of the illicit traffic.

The commissioner stated that the Mexican government is being urged to broaden its attempt to stamp out the production of marijuana in Mexico in view of a tremendous increase in border smuggling activities.

Anslinger reported to Treasury Secretary Snyder that "large quantities" of cocaine are available in Peru, Chile and Bolivia. He added: "Seamen Smuggling It."

"American seamen are smuggling it regularly to the United States."

Anslinger said the cocaine traffic was not a problem until last year when agents seized more than 209 ounces. This compared with only 26 ounces confiscated in 1947.

The commissioner stated: "In the Harlem district of New York City there appears to be sufficient cocaine available to satisfy demands in the illicit traffic."

"It is indicated that a portion of this cocaine is smuggled from Peru to out-of-the-way ports on South Carolina and Alabama and then transported overland to New York."

The commissioner also reported: 1. Seizures of raw and prepared opium in 1948 were fewer than in the previous year; but illicit traffic in morphine, heroin, cocaine and marijuana are on the increase.

2. Incoming merchant seamen report to federal agents that Shanghai, Rangoon, Calcutta and Singapore "are hotbeds of narcotic activities where opium may be obtained without difficulty."

Noted Missionary Will Be Speaker

Dr. Frank C. Laubach Will Take Part In Missionary Conference At New Wilmington

Dr. Frank C. Laubach, considered by many to be the best known missionary in the world, will be one of the principal speakers at the New Wilmington missionary conference Sunday, Aug. 7, according to Fulton C. Kissick, conference director.

Dr. Laubach is particularly known for his work in adult education in various mission fields. In 1930 he went to the island of Mindanao to live among the Moros, a wild and backward people. He lived with them, studied their language, taught it to them, and became their beloved friend.

For more than 30 years he has served in the mission fields for the Congregational-Christian churches, who lend his services to the Committee on World Literacy and Christian Literature of the Foreign Missions Conference of North America.

The conference opens for the 44th year Aug. 5 and continues through Aug. 13. A pre-conference period will open next Tuesday at which time conference workers will meet to complete plans.

About 550 delegates between the ages of 16 and 24 are expected. They will come from such places as Des Moines, Washington, D. C., and New York City. William McClelland of New Castle is assistant conference manager. An office is open in Old Main, Westminster college.

Unusual Modeling At Croton Avenue City Playground

Croton avenue playground children engaged in carving of soap figures for an afternoon's pastime. Miss Rosina Prioletti (right foreground) shows her model of the Holy Bible to Twila Eckley and Junior Rigan and other children of the playground after a carving session.

Modeling was really "quite the thing" at Croton Avenue playground Wednesday. There weren't live models, merely those of soap. Twila Eckley, Junior Rigan and Rosina Prioletti had unusual models of swans and Bibles. Cats, dogs, bunnies and other types of animals put in an appearance on the playground. With a little imagination the children also fashioned flowers, pictures and original models of all types.

Handicraft has been indeed popular with the youngsters this summer. Working with gimp seems to be number one on the popularity list for every day the children are ready to make lanyards, bracelets and practically any kind of gimp work. Crepe paper flowers are also made, jars are made festive with crepe paper and stuffed oilcloth animals are an old favorite of the playground participants.

The playground apparatus is in constant use and tether ball still reigns high with the youngsters. From morning till closing hour this favorite sport is continually be used. Swings, see-saws and slides are filled to capacity. There seems to be no lack of recreational facilities here and the children know how to have a good time. Girls volleyball team played the Mahoningtown team today at the Mahoning field.

Pennsylvania Municipalities Have Second Highest Debt In Nation But Pay Well

HARRISBURG, July 29.—(INS)—Pennsylvania's local governments are in debt today but the overall financial structure is sturdy. Counties, cities, boroughs and townships show a combined debt of near one billion dollars. The latest available figures in the Department of Internal Affairs show an over-all debt of more than $708,000,000.

Officials said the debt "undoubtedly is well above that figure because more municipalities have undertaken broad expansion projects since war-time restrictions were called off and hence gone in for greater bonded indebtedness."

The department must approve all bonds issued by municipalities and hardly a day goes by that secretary William S. Livengood, Jr., doesn't endorse issues for municipal or school district purchases, construction or equipment.

High Debt In 1938
Highest bonded indebtedness recorded by the state's local governments was the eight-year period ending in 1938. Each of the years saw the debt rise well above the one billion dollar mark.

During war years, the debt remained fairly steady wavering slightly between seven and a half to eight and a half million dollars.

Dr. H. F. Alderfer, state director of municipal affairs, said the financial structure of Pennsylvania's municipalities "is about the soundest in the nation."

He said the state's standing was evident from the fact that although the commonwealth's municipalities have the second highest amount of municipal debt—Massachusetts ranks first—interest rates on Pennsylvania municipal debts are lower than those in most other states. Although the rates are lower than those of most other states, the bonds go like hot-cakes.

Secure Investment
It's less of a risk to invest in local government credits, Alderfer said. Private enterprise investment rates are higher than those of municipalities but local government investment provides greater security, he indicated.

Since 1936, municipal interest rates have seldom popped above 3 per cent. They reached an all-time low of 1.29 per cent in May, 1946, and have been rising gradually since.

Three main reasons offered by Alderfer for low interest rates: the demand for greater safety that municipal bonds afford, the tax-free features of municipal bonds when taxation had reached an all-time high and the controlled obligations which to some extent have kept the municipal market along with government offerings.

Few Defaults
Municipalities are not pikers, Alderfer said, since where defaults have occurred no instances are recorded where a municipality was forced to cut the principal amount in refunding its defaulted bonds.

"If investors generally are willing to buy municipal bonds at a lower rate of interest than in other states there must be a reason," Alderfer declared.

"That reason would appear to be that Pennsylvania has one of the soundest financial structures and some of the most farsighted policies of local government found in the nation," he said.

By FRANCINE MARKEL

SUGGESTIONS FOR WORRIED WIFE

"My husband's interest in me seems to be waning. I feel sure that he is faithful to me for we spend every evening together. But I have just a suspicion that he compares me with a number of attractively-dressed girls with whom he works."

Answer: Perhaps your imagination is over-active. In case that is not so, try being your very sweetest and most attractive self. Analyze yourself and see if you have been taking him for granted. Try treating him as you did in your early married days. Dress for dinner, even if you must also don an apron to cook it. Men used to seeing office girls neatly dressed and coiffed are disillusioned on going home to wives who have adopted the wrapper and curler habit. Keep yourself attractive at all times.

Treat your husband with politeness, avoid nagging and suggestions of jealousy. Compliment him and make him feel that you appreciate him. While fostering such doubts is a proper period for you to discipline yourself emotionally and educate yourself in self-control. Refrain from emotional strains of all kinds. No matter what happens, never allow yourself to become hysterical or melancholy, especially when your husband is with you. Make a heroic effort to make your home a haven of harmony. During the hour before you dress for his home-coming, relax physically, if possible.

Question: Is it correct for me to invite a girl whom I do not know to a shower I shall give for a girl who is a friend of mine as well as of the girl I have in mind?

Answer: Yes. All of those invited to a shower should be intimate friends of the bride-to-be, whether or not they are unknown to the hostess. Friends of the hostess who are unknown to the bride-to-be should not be invited. The purpose of such a function is to shower gifts on the engaged girl and those who do not know her should not be expected to do so.

Present your problems to Miss Markel who will promptly send personal replies to questions from readers including stamped, addressed envelopes.

Scout Camp Ends Successful Season

New Plan Of Troop Camping
Brings More Boys And Units
To Campsite

Lawrence County Boy Scout camp officially closed last Saturday one of the most successful seasons in the past few years.

According to John Lawson, camp director, the success of the camp this year was due to the new troop camping program and good food.

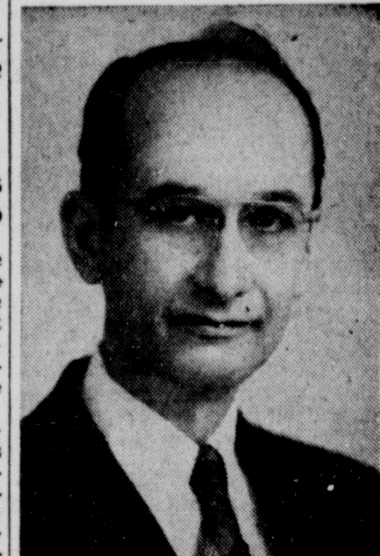

More and more troops are going to camp under the leadership of their scoutmasters, and that is the way to do scout camping."

During the three week period that the scout troops camped at the council campsite and used the dining facilities, there was a total of 202 merit badges earned by the scouts. The most popular badges at camp were: Pioneering, Bird Study, Cooking, Camping, Swimming, Life Saving, Canoeing, Rowing, Athletics and First Aid.

Make Life Awards
There were a total of 22 Scouts who received their first class certificates and 74 who received their second class. Three scouts were awarded the Star Award and two received Life awards.

During the second period of camp, more than 200 people from the county witnessed the Court of Honor at the remodeled campfire area. Approximately 150 people attended the last Court of Honor.

Kiel Hits Two Homers, Corbett Hurls One-Hit Game, Wagner Wins 15th

Herman Kiel's terrific hitting last night, enabled the New Castle Nats to climb into seventh place in the Mid-Atlantic league standing, with the Nats downing the Butler Tigers twice 5 to 0, and 6 to 5, the night-cap going 12 innings.

None-the-less sensational was the one-hit pitching of the veteran Ty Corbett in the seven-inning first game, and his brilliant shutout of the Tigers, and the great relief hurling of the veteran Frank Wagner who racked up his 15th win against six reverses. Wagner had to rescue Joe Karakul in the 9th inning of the second game.

17th And 18th For Kiel

Kiel's two homers in the night-cap were his 17th and 18th since joining New Castle the first week in June. Kiel had five hits in seven trips to the plate in the twin bill, besides his two mighty wallops over the barrier in center-field, he had two singles and a double, and drew two walks. Reed Maier had four for nine trips, three of them in the second game.

The defeat of Uniontown by Erie 4 to 1 elevated the Nats into the seventh slot, with a percentage of .310 against .296. New Castle is only three games out of sixth place.

Walks In Winning Run

The night-cap was a tough one for Tommy Pritchard to lose and he did lose it the hard way, walking in Maier with the winning run, in the 12th with two out, as Ty Corbett in right field replacing Cavanaugh drew a free ticket with the sacks intoxicated, Pritchard walking three in a row, Kiel, Torrey and Corbett, after Maier had led off with a single. Gazzola sacrificed and Shapiro went out on a grounder to third.

New Castle appeared to have the game "sewed up" in the eighth as Kiel hit his second round-tripper with one run in, and Shapiro on base, making it 5 to 3. Karakul weakened in the ninth allowing two Tigers to reach base with one out. Wagner came in and put the fire out.

Corbett was invincible the first game, allowing one hit, walking four and did not fan a man. The Nats gave Corbett errorless support.

Buranskas Spoils It

Big Vic Buranskas the Tiger first sacker, spoiled the Mid-Atlantic Hall of Fame bid for Corbett by scratching a hit through second in the fourth inning, only to face Corbett in the 7th, in which the Tiger player got beyond second, and only that far by a pair of walks in the seventh inning.

New Castle got to Cruz in the opening inning for an unearned run, Maier playing third in place of Manager Billy Mongiello led off with a single and scored on a wild pitch, after reaching third as Shapiro and Kiel walked.

The Nats added three more in the third on a single by Shapiro, and doubles by Kiel and Bill Torrey, with Hank Ruskowski driving in Torrey with a single. Shapiro and Kiel riding home on Torrey's double. The Nats added one more in the fourth for good measure, a single by Kiel playing Gazzola who had singled, and stole second.

Spot Tigers Three

The Nats spotted Butler three runs in the first inning of the night-cap and then had to fight an uphill battle, finally doing it in the 12th, after tying the game up in the eighth on Kiel's homer.

Hank Ruskowski, the former Cleveland Indian receiver, caught Corbett in the first game, and turned in a very creditable performance, being a steady influence. He relieved Gipp, in the 9th inning of the night-cap too. Inactivity has dulled his batting eye, but Hank can bust them, far and wide when right. Hilly Shapiro played in center-field had seven chances at bat and had one hit, a single, walked three times and fanned twice. Shapiro is also highly recognized hitter and will find his batting eye.

The Nats are going after two

Ambridge Defeats New Castle 5 To 1

Valley Legion Nine Eliminates Locals From Title Race By Sweeping Series

Ambridge Legion baseball team defeated the New Castle nine 5 to 1 at Lee avenue field last night.

The win was the second in a row for the valley team over the Gaston Post entry. New Castle is now eliminated from any further state title consideration, while Ambridge will continue in tourney play at Forbes field in quest of the championship hunting.

Ambridge swept the first two games in the best of three series in decisive fashion. The local team kept the scores close and played good baseball all the way, but succumbed to the high class Bridgers who have the advantage of playing ball all spring for their high school.

Many of the members on the winning team last night were members of Ambridge High's section 8 WPAL champions.

Score In First

Joe Farquhar, Larry North and Bob Kosis doubled in the very first inning off New Castle starter Gene Gurgio. This was good for two runs and enough to win the ball game. The winners scored two more in the fourth and added a single tally in the sixth on Bernie Janicki's homer.

Steve Kisco led New Castle down with six hits and was very tight in the clutches.

Two bunting New Castle rallies were shut off by the big right-hander at the very time a solid base hit would have broken up the game.

Rallies Fail

Three singles after one was gone in the first failed to produce a score. In the fifth, Gurgio led off with a single, advanced a notch when John Sansone walked to a base knock, and Costello walked and two flies produced New Castle's only tally after a promising start.

Costello and Andrews distinguished themselves defensively for New Castle.

With tournament play ended New Castle will rejoin Bessemer, Wampum, New Wilmington and Ellwood City in the county Legion league.

Pearson A. C. assured themselves of a third place finish and a playoff position in the City Softball league by defeating the East Side Shamrocks, 5 to 4, last night.

Ralph Russo's timely hit in the ninth with a mate aboard broke up the ball game in the ninth inning. Russo and Miller were the hitting stars of the game.

Cardinals And Dodgers Again Battle To Tie

By LES KONKIN
(International News Service Staff Writer)

NEW YORK, July 30.—The Dodgers and the Cardinals, experts in the Mexican stand-off, sweated through nine innings and almost three hours of baseball last night and early today and ended up where they started.

At 12:50 a. m., the contest was called with the score 3-3 because of the National League's curfew law. As a result St. Louis held its 1½ game lead over Brooklyn.

Second Straight Tie

The tie game marked the second straight time that the two pennant contenders ended their nine-innings deadlocked. When the Redbirds and the Dodgers met at Ebbets field last Monday, the game ended in a 4-4 impasse, the Dodgers, trailing 3-2 going into the ninth, tied it up on a walk to Roy Campanella, a pinch single by Marvin Rakley and an outfield fly by Peeewe Reese.

Yanks Edge Sox

Joe Page may spark the New York Yankees to another American League pennant this year just as he did in 1947.

The veteran southpaw relief pitcher, who had an off season in 1948 and thereby probably cost the Yanks the flag, once again is saving game after game for the New Yorkers.

Last night he squelched a ninth-inning rally by the Chicago White Sox and the Yankees won 3 to 2.

Indians Split

New York increased its lead over the second-place Cleveland Indians to 4½ games. Joe Dobson of the Boston Red Sox pitched a four-hit 2 to 1 win over Cleveland in the afternoon, but the Indians ran away with the night game, 9 to 3.

Macks-Browns Win

The other two American League games also were played under the lights. Philadelphia's Athletics beat Detroit's Art Houtemaann, 5 to 3, and the St. Louis Browns defeated Washington, 6 to 2, with a four-run rally in the 10th inning.

In the National League, Herman Wehmeier of the Cincinnati Reds held the New York Giants to four hits and blanked them 3 to 0 under the lights.

Rain played havoc with the balance of the program in the senior circuit. The Pittsburgh-Braves game and the Phillies-Cubs contest were washed out.

Young Golfer Scores An Eagle

Bud McKibben, who is playing his first year at the grand old game of golf, scored an eagle on the Par 4, No. 13 hole at Sylvan Heights course Friday evening, while playing in the Shenango Pottery League.

Bud was playing in a foursome with Sam Bonpane, Wilbur Weinhold and Don Kerr. His fellow golfers were so impressed by his shot that they chipped in and bought him a nice present.

Three Games Sunday In County League

Sunday's schedule in the Lawrence County baseball league will have only three games this week. The fourth game between New Galilee and Wampum will be played Monday evening at New Galilee.

In the nine-inning attractions on Sunday, Bessemer will be at Koppel, Ellwood VFW at St. Lucy, and Hillsville at Lowellville.

TRAP AND SKEET SHOOT SUNDAY

There will be a trap and skeet shoot at the Harbor range of the Sportsmen's club Sunday from 2 to 6 o'clock. It was announced today by President Herman Steinbrink. All shooters are welcome.

PONDER CHALLENGED AT ARLINGTON TODAY

CHICAGO, July 30.—(INS)—The "Big Three" of the nation's three-year-old colts—Ponder, Capot and Palestinian—race in Chicago's $60,000-added Arlington classic today in what seems to be a re-run of the Kentucky Derby.

The faces of the central characters and horses in this Churchill Downs facsimile are nearly the same as they were at Louisville in May.

The question of interest is whether hard-riding Steve Brooks will be able to jockey Calumet Farm's Ponder to another victory over Capot and Palestinian.

A crowd of 35,000 spectators will be present to see if it wasn't all a mistake when Ponder came from a dusty last to win the derby by three lengths.

Bessemer Edges New Galilee 5-3

Paul Johnson Triples Home Two Runs And Scores A Third For Winners

Bessemer squeezed past New Galilee 5 to 3 Friday evening at New Galilee in Lawrence County league play.

The winners parlayed five hits into as many runs while New Galilee got only three tallies on eight safeties. Paul Johnson's triple with two on in the fifth was the big blow of the contest. Johnson later dual a run himself to put Bessemer ahead 4 to 0.

A. Anderson strated for Bessemer and pitched shutout ball for four innings. However he began to tire and Jim Martin finished the game which was called at the end of six innings because of the rain.

Score by innings: R H E

Wagner And Bucchioni Will Pitch Tonight In "Family Night" Tilts

Tonight has been designated as "Family Night at Flaherty Memorial Field, and the merchants of New Castle have donated over $200 worth of prizes, as the New Castle Nats battle the Oil City Refiners in a twin-bill, the first game at 7 o'clock.

Providing the downpour and electrical storm early this morning makes the field unfit for play tonight, there will be a double bill Sunday, the first game starting at 2 o'clock, Manager Mongiello stated today.

Bucchioni and Wagner

Mongiello (who has placed himself on the disabled list for the time being) has nominated Felix Bucchioni to hurl the first game tonight and Frank Wagner the veteran will go after his 16th win in the second game.

Oil City currently riding in third place in the Mid-Atlantic loop will provide a lot stiffer competition than did the Butler Tigers last night. Oil City has always been hard for New Castle to defeat and they are currently trying for the top spot in the circuit.

The Nats now have a well balanced hitting ball club, 21 hits in two games last night and have a fine defensive team afield now. Manager Mongiello stepped out to make room for Hank Ruskowski on the roster, the catcher being a veteran. Eugene Bilo is still nursing a twisted ankle suffered at Youngstown last Sunday.

Soap Wrapper Sunday

Tonight providing there is a game, Dad can bring in the whole family for $1.25, mom and all the children in the family up to 16 years of age. There is no limit on the size of the families just so they are under 16.

Sunday is "Swan Soap Wrapper Day", all children under 15 in New Castle being admitted for two Swan Soap wrappers. The kiddies will make a lot of noise as they root for the Nats.

Golf League Teams To Play Sunday

Castle Club and Morellas will play their match in the second round championship series in the City Golf League. Sunday afternoon at Sylvan Heights Course.

The Castle Club team won the right to enter the playoffs by defeating Shenango Pottery Local 3125 last week, and will meet the strong Morellas tomorrow.

The winner of this match will meet United Engineering for the title on Sunday, August 7.

SACRED HEARTS BEAT FIRST BAPTIST, 3-2

Sacred Hearts handed the First Baptists a 3-to-2 defeat in a church league softball game last night.

J. Costa, A. Zarone and B. Golano were the heavy hitters for the Sacred Hearts, with Golano smashing a tremendous home run to win the ball game in extra innings.

Lutz did the best hitting for the First Baptists.

N. Mitlo received credit for the win and Weller was tagged with the loss in a game without an error.

He said that all through the blackened forest could be seen charred remains of burned animals. Birds' nests were burned to a crisp. The Marienville fire was a case of a fisherman's camp-fire having been abandoned without being extinguished, according to Seth Myers, secretary, northwest division, State Federation of Sportsmen. The Forest County Council of Sportsmen is circulating a resolution which will receive state-wide support. It asks that a law be enacted to penalize those who are guilty of permitting a fire to get out of control, and into a forest.

Due to an injury to his back, William (Barney) McCloskey, left fielder of the Athletics in 1946-1948, has returned to his Dearborn, Mich., home. . . . Steve Belloise and Sugar Ray Robinson box in New York, August 15. . . . The Ellwood City Firemen's card will lack the presence of Billy Pozza, heavy-weight, who despite successive defeats is yet a fistie hero there. The benefit fight will be held August 11. . . . When Pozza and Rizzieri Ronzi clash here in the fall, there'll be a jammed Arena. . . . While Hugh MacDonald was umpiring a game between Ottawa and Geneva, N. Y., recently, thieves robbed his car of $200 worth of clothing and sports equipment.

Vince Dundee, who died at Baltimore recently of multiple sclerosis and his brother, Joe, are probably the only set of brothers to have held titles in the ring. Vince won the middleweight title from Lou Brullard in 1933, and lost it to Teddy Yarrow, in 1934, in Pittsburgh. He entered a Baltimore hospital in 1942 for treatment of a blocked nerve at the base of his brain. His brother Joe, was welterweight king from 1927 to 1929. . . . Among other brothers who tried but failed to win two titles were Jim and Bob Jeffries; Abe and Monte Attel and George and Joe Chip. Young Bob Fitzsimmons failed to follow in the footsteps of his father, likewise a son of Jack Britton. . . . Thursday's rain muddled bass streams thereabouts. . . . Providing one believes women are not interested in baseball, he should listen while walking or motoring along thoroughfares and he will hear radios blaring baseball news while Mrs. Housewife does her chores and hubby is at his place of employment. . . . Kiski Marino is to New York-bound next week where he hopes to see some ball games after which he will bathe at Atlantic City.

MANGRUM-HARBERT
LEADING WESTERN

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 30—(INS)—Lloyd Mangrum, of Niles, Ill., and Chick Harbert, of Detroit, each with two successive rounds of five under par 67's to his credit, paced the field today in the Western Open golf tournament.

Jimmy Demaret, of Ojai, Cal., and Sam Snead, of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., trailed the leaders by two strokes with 136 each for the first 36 holes.

UN VETS MEET MOOSE

United Nations Veterans, one of Ellwood City's outstanding softball teams will play the league-leading Moose club of New Castle Sunday afternoon at Gaston Park at 2:30.

The brain of a newly born child is about one-third its ultimate size.

EDIN-HILLERS
TOP CASTLEWOOD

The Edin-Hillers baseball team defeated Castlewood last night 5 to 2 in a North County league game, with Book the winning hurler and Miller the loser. Exposito had four hits and F. Retort a triple for the winners.

Tonight the Edin-Hillers will play the Penn-Ohio Merchants at the Edin-Hiller field at 6:15 o'clock it was announced.

Jeff Durkota, standout halfback on the 1947 Penn State football team, will play for the Los Angeles Dons of the All-American Conference again in 1949. Durkota backed up Herman Wedemeyer on last year's coast eleven, averaging 4.71 per carry running and totaling 198 yards on 9 kickoff returns.

HEAT BLAMED FOR YEAR IN COOLER

PHILADELPHIA, July 30.—(INS)—A private watchman, who blamed the heat for his attempt to break away from police officers, was slated today to spend a year in the cooler.

The watchman, Nicholas Hordecki, 40, had been ordered by the court to stop visiting his estranged wife, who had lodged an assault and battery charge against him.

His wife, Esther, complained that he kept annoying her, however. When police attempted to bring him into court to face a charge of violating probation, Hordecki fled down two flights of stairs in City Hall but was quickly captured. He said the heat got him.

Judge Joseph Kun sentenced him to a year "to cool off."

Barter System Recommended By Agriculture Aid

Suggestions Not In Line Previous Policy Statements By Brannan

OTHER NEWS OF THE AGRICULTURE WORLD

WASHINGTON, July 29—(INS)—E. D. White, a special assistant to Agriculture Secretary Brannan, recommends that this country develop a barter system for trading with dollar-short nations.

White thinks this is the way for America to cut down on its mounting cotton and grain surplus and at the same time to obtain needed strategic materials from overseas. This suggestion is not at all in line with previous policy statements by Brannan. It gives rise to speculation as to whether the administration plans to resort to such an extreme measure as barter to get rid of crop surpluses.

Here's what White says: "If we have more cotton than we need, the surplus is of no particular benefit to us. Why not, then, exchange this surplus with some foreign country that is unable to buy cotton from us? Take something that they have that we need."

Strengthen Milk Price
The government has made two new moves to strengthen the price of milk going into manufactured dairy products. It has boosted the support price for butter by three cents a pound and announced that it will buy Cheddar cheese at 31 and three-quarters cents a pound.

The increase in butter supports had been scheduled to go into effect on September 1 any way. Apparently the agriculture department sees that the normal seasonal slump in prices has begun way earlier than usual.

New support price for butter are 62 cents a pound for U.S. grade A or higher and 60 cents for grade B. On another crop—cottonseed—agriculture officials expect the 1949 support level to be about 50 dollars a ton on the basis of August 1 parity prices.

Cottonseed Price Down
For cottonseed sold on commercial markets, the price dropped from an average of nearly 86 dollars a ton in 1947 to a little more than 67 dollars last year.

Details of the new cottonseed price program are being worked out today in a meeting between government officials and committeemen from the cotton-producing states.

The army is buying another two million, 100 thousand bushels of 1948-crop soybeans for shipment to occupied Germany.

The beans will be taken from supplies which came to the government under price support operations. The deal means that the money tied up in this amount of soybeans will be free for use in making new crop loans this year.

Last month the army bought one million, 900 thousand bushels of beans for shipment to Japan.

Around Hollywood

By FRANK NEILL
(International News Service Staff Correspondent)

HOLLYWOOD, July 29—News-papern always fascinated me—even before those charming fellows became essential to me in the development of a career.

As a kid in Baltimore, I used to look up reverently to a couple of reporters whom my dad, a lawyer, knew. I used to haunt their city hall beat.

Later on, when I was using a razor every day and had voted in at least one presidential election, I went to St. Louis for radio work where I got to know a reporter named Barney.

Rugged Reporters
Barney had started newspapering in Denver, back in the lusty days when Gene Fowler was even then a local legend. They must have bred a rugged crew of ink-slingers in that lofty altitude, for Barney was in the best Fowler tradition himself, and so were the characters that peopled his stories of Denver in the 1910-20 period.

Barney had worked on the Express, a sheet which was in opposition to the one on which Fowler was gathering glory. The Express (now defunct) wasn't as large as its rival but it was, if anything, even livelier.

Its managing editor was regarded by his staff with the fine blend of wariness, fear and grudging admiration that all rip-snorting managing editors engender—or did.

Swell Parties
Barney's old editor in Denver was a gregarious man, and enjoyed having people around socially as well as during working hours. He'd toss parties for the paper's personnel—and they grew to dread those parties.

The more Scotch or bourbon he tucked in, the more jovial he became. In a fine alcoholic flush he'd wind up convinced that there was nothing his reporters couldn't do if he set them to it.

The editor, in a frenzy of crusading zeal, would invent impossible assignments and send his men forth, directly from the party, to execute them. All of his parties wound up minus guests.

The poor, embattled reporters would be staggering, despondently and bitterly, through snow or rain, as the climate might afford, off through the byways and alleys of Denver, routing out indignant citizens, occasionally getting clouted on the head or otherwise damaged, all in the line of duty.

Find The Murderer

On one such occasion, in a burst of enthusiasm, the editor came to the decision that his boys could find a murderer who was on the loose in Denver.

He concluded that the killer would be hiding in the unsavory corner of town known as the flophouse district. Like a general mapping his campaign, he divided the area in six parts, awarding one each to his reporters and one to himself.

Then, in a ten-below-zero night, the miserable band sallied forth. Barney progressed cautiously into his sector, eyeing the alleys and keeping away from buildings. He had orders to comb every flophouse in the area, personally inspecting each sleeper in quest of the murderer.

Faces Are Red
For an hour Barney wandered the dismal streets, shivering in the bitter wind. Finally, having entered not a flophouse, he slunk into the Goodheart mission—only haven of warmth and relative safety in the whole sinister section.

Inside were gathered the five other reporters and the editor, who were drinking coffee and sneezing while they tried to warm themselves before an iron stove. Very little was said about the night's expedition, then or the next day. But it was a good three weeks before the editor had another party.
